

knits from the dark side catch a gothy glimpse of the anticraft

THE ANTICRAFT WEBSITE, www.theanticraft.com, is possessing a computer screen near you. The darkly darling 'zine is bursting with free knitting patterns, like the all-wire Heart Shaped Box, the Bad Juju Voodoo Doll, the Curse Your Boyfriend Sweater, and, my favorite, the Swamp Witch Shawl. Each pattern is accompanied by a quote, short story, or spell to get you in the mood, and the difficulty levels range from "Do You Want Fries with That?" to "AntiCraft Superstar," so even the least hardcore can jump into the fray. Stitch 'n Bitch Nation contributor Renée Rigdon and co-conspirator Zabet Stewart were inspired to "create a haven for all the sinister crafters of the world," and the result will inspire you to exorcise the demons of daily drudgery, materialism, and downright boringness and make like Arachne spinning her crazy, beautiful web. The AntiCraft is the online place to be for all us loveably black-hearted crafty grrrls, so bookmark it now or be damned. [JENNI MILLER]
